Sites of Historical & Cultural importance in the vicinity

Hansali Organic Farm lies in the heart of Fatehgarh Sahib, at a distance of around 10 kilometers from the center of the district. There are several natural & cultural resources in the region for instance sites of pilgrimage significance which include the historical Gurudwaras related to Sikh history, where the younger sons of the 10th Guru, Guru Gobind Singh ji, Baba Zorawar Singh ji & Baba Fateh Singh ji, & the mother of Guru Gobind Singh ji were martyred. (13 km from Hansali Organic Farm)

Shaheedi Sabha (earlier Shaheedi jod Mela) is a three-day annual religious congregation (get-together) organised every year in December at Gurudwara Shri Fatehgarh Sahib, to pay homage to the martyrdom of Chhotte Sahibzade Baba Zorawar Singh ji and Baba Fateh Singh ji, the youngest sons of the 10th Sikh guru Gobind Singh ji.

Gurudwara Shri Fatehgarh Sahib

On the Sirhind-Bassi Pathana Road, near Gurudwara Fatehgarh Sahib is the magnificent RAUZA or DARGAH of Sheikh Ahmad Faruqi Sirhindi, popularly known as Mujaddid, Alf-Isfani who lived in the times of Akbar and Jahangir from 1563 to 1624. The Sheikh is held in high esteem and is considered by Sunni Muslims to be second to prophet Mohammed. For this reason, this mausoleum is regarded as a second Mecca by the Sunni Muslims. Every year, thousands of pilgrims from various parts of world visit this place to participate in the celebrations, known as Urs of Sheikh Ahmad Sirhindi. The date of annual celebrations vary from year to year. Every year, these celebrations precede by ten days than the previous year.

Sanghol Archaeological Museum is a site where the Harappan, Buddhist and Kushan period artifacts have been unearthed. Located in Ucha Pind Sanghol the place has been inhabited from Late Harappan to Medieval to the current days. In fact during Kushan period of 1st to 3rd century AD this place was an important town and was on a trade route. The museum displays antiquities, sculptures, coins, household materials found in the excavation here. Two Buddhist Stupa sites here revealed the largest collection of sculptures belonging to the Mathura School of Art found outside Mathura & these sandstone sculptures on pillars, railings, coping stones and crossbars are the pride of the museum. (36.6 Km from Hansali Organic Farm)

Mehar Baba Charitable Trust (16km) is a registered not for profit organization . The trust is empowering rural women and providing Medi-care, Edu-care, and Socio-care services by serving the population base of 2,09,339 under privileged living in 186 villages in district Fatehgarh Sahib, Punjab, India.

The trust is dedicated to empowering women in rural areas by making them independent and knowledgeable entrepreneurs while preserving a rich heritage. The women become breadwinners. This is achieved through vocational training, computer studies and spoken English programs. Women are trained in a marketable skill such as Garment Making, Phulkari Craft, Machine Embroidery, Aari Zardozi Embroidery & Rug Making. Already more than 500 women are in gainful employment working from their homes , and a few enterprising women have started their own garment businesses. Some women have formed Self Help Groups to produce Phulkari Garments & imparting training to women.

Enchanting Memories at Hansali Organic Farm

Partnering with local self help communities

Balwaar India (86.5km) at Hakikatpur village, district Sangrur. Kiran R Singh is reviving handloom-woven cotton blankets called khes and multi-coloured rugs called durries.

A few years ago, she started a pilot project, weaving khes and durries with 18 local women. The idea was to create products that can be sold in the market. The 'khes' is a traditional punjabi thin blanket cloth made of cotton & woven by hand. Now the women weave one khes daily, which would earlier take 5-6 days. The durries are woven on fixed-frame looms called atta. Twenty-two trained women work full-time and earn a decent amount to supplement their family income. Also the school fees of many girls of the women working is sponsored by Balwaar. The yarn for the khes is hand-spun on charkhas at Balwaar. Currently, they are experimenting with natural dyes for the Khes made by them. They also frequently have students from schools around neighboring cities, and design institutions to document the craft of weaving at Balwaar.

Hansali Organic Farm has an association with Balwaar wherein they exhibit their traditional weaving products at the food festival called 'Hansali Fest' held at the farm in February each year & get an opportunity to exhibit & sell their traditional products.

Subject: Recommendation for Best Rural Homestay Competition.

We are pleased to recommend the name of our progressive farmer, Mr. Sukhchain Singh Gill, Vill. Hansali, Tehsil & District Fatehgarh Sahib, Punjab – 140406. Mob 9988892204, who has been dedicatedly practising organic farming for more than 15 years at his farm, is associated and certified under the organic programme of the Govt. of Punjab through Punjab Agro.

Hansali Farm Stay, nestled in the heart of Punjab, offers a serene escape from the hustle and bustle of city life. It also stands as a shining example of responsible tourism that actively contributes to empowering women entrepreneurs and preserving local art and culture.

Hansali Farm Stay is an exceptional place that showcases the rich cultural heritage of Punjab while providing tourists with an authentic rural experience.

The WICCI Punjab Rural Tourism Council, in partnership with Hansali Farm Stay, has played a pivotal role in fostering economic independence among local women by providing them opportunities to run their businesses on the premises. From managing the farm's organic produce to crafting traditional Punjabi handicrafts, these women have contributed to the farm's sustainability and have also become role models for others in the community.

In conclusion, Hansali Farm Stay is a true beacon of responsible and community-centric tourism. At their farm stay, they offer a hands-on learning experience to guests in organic farming at a working organic farm, thereby introducing and educating guests about natural farming practices and pure food.

Ms Sonali Pal, National President of WICCI Rural Tourism Council and WICCI Punjab Rural Tourism Council, strongly recommends the well-deserving farmer, Mr Sukhchain Singh, for conferring the award by your department.

Identified Natural Resources at the farm (Horticulture)

The Agricultural practices are centered around the concept of Organic farming. The farm practices integrated organic farming, where many streams of agriculture are practiced simultaneously, such as a multi fruit orchard, a vegetable garden, free range poultry, a cow milk dairy (with the local breed of Sahiwal cows) & goat farm in addition to open field organic farming of wheat, basmati rice, pulses & sugarcane. The farm is certified organic by Punjab Agro as per NPOP standards. Since the last more than 16 years, there has not been any use of any chemical pesticides or fertilizers in the fields thereby encouraging the growth of micro organisms in the soil to assist in natural farming

Organic food products made from produce grown at the farm

Identified Natural Resources at the farm. (Animal Husbandry)

Animal Husbandry is a vital part of integrated natural farming, as each activity contributes to the other. For instance the fields provide pure organic greens & fodder to the livestock, who in return provide manure required for the fields. Since organic farming involves complete abstinence of chemical fertilizers or pesticides, manure from animal husbandry is the prime source of fertilizer at the farm. Also, the fresh milk, eggs & other products add a fresh natural flavour to the meals served to the guests at the farm. The children can interact with the farm animals, and witness & participate in farm activities like milking of cows, collecting eggs etc. Further the products from the dairy farm, goat farm As well as poultry add a much needed variety for The organic customers of the farm in the city. The dairy & farm unit also have a food safety FSSAI Registration.

Subject: Recommendation for Best Rural Homestay Competition.

We are pleased to recommend the name of our progressive farmer Mr. Sukhchain Singh Gill of Vill. Hansali, Tehsil & District Fatehgarh Sahib, Punjab – 140406, Mob. 9988892204, who is a dedicated Organic farmer, practicing the same since the last more than 15 years at his farm. He is associated under the Organic programme of Govt. of Punjab and his farm is Organically certified (with certification Tracenet code: PJ0802000029) through the Punjab Agri Export Corporation Limited.

The octogenarian farmer, Mr. Sukhchain Singh Gill is still actively practicing the actual concept of organic farming with an integrated approach. Along with cereal crops and horticulture, he has diversified successfully to Organic dairy of cows & goats, substantially contributing to organic farming.

With his efforts and family support, he has built up a large base of organic customers, and they are marketing their organic products at premium price.

Being a progressive farmer, he has built up an attractive and comfortable Homestay arrangement at his farm, that offers hands on gainful learning experience to guests at a working organic farm, thereby introducing & educating guests to natural farming practices & Pure Organic Food.

Keeping in view the above concept and the achievement, we strongly recommend the well deserving farmer, Mr. Sukhchain Singh Gill for conferring him with renowned Homestay Competition award by your department.

Practice of Sustainability at Hansali Organic Farm

Another important factor of practicing sustainability is that the entire farm has a provision for irrigation by means of underground pipes which have been laid in all the fields & there is a tapping point for irrigation at the corner of every field. This practice helps in much better management of irrigation water from the tubewell & also helps in saving water considerably, compared to the earlier system of open water mud channels, as water conveyance losses through seepage, evaporation and breaches in the channels are avoided.

ADVANTAGES

- Cultivation can be done above the pipeline
- No culverts or other structures are required
- Saves land area.
- The pipelines do not interfere with farming operations.
- Long life and low maintenance costs.
- Eliminates water loss by evaporation.
- Operate under pressure and can be laid uphill or downhill, thus permitting the delivery of irrigation water to areas not accessible by open channels.
- Wells need not be located at the highpoint of the farm but may be at a location that provides best water supply.
- Water pumped from wells may be delivered directly into the pipeline system.

Practice of sustainability at Hansali Organic Farm

Several initiatives in practice of sustainability have been taken. The first was the construction of the farm house with the use of locally available materials & in a sustainable manner. More than 90% of the woodwork of the farm house, as well as the furniture is pre owned, reused & up cycled (sourced from markets in Chandigarh where pre-owned woodwork & furniture is sold by houses renovating to newer modern styles.)

This also helped in maintaining an older traditional look of the ambience, as well as fitting into the ethos of sustainability that the farm practices.

Also the architecture resembles the 'courtyard' style as in erstwhile punjabi houses. The floors are using the natural stone and brickwork, and tiles are used only in the washrooms of the farm house.

Annual food festival at Hansali Organic Farm for promotion of local cuisine, art & crafts

Each year in mid-February, Hansali Organic farm organizes a food festival called the Hansali Fest, wherein the food menu is curated by Hyatt Centric hotel Chandigarh around the produce of the farm. This way, the guests can directly connect the organic food growing in the fields to the food on their plate & have a taste of delicacies made with fresh, naturally grown produce. This event serves to connect the organic farmer to his customers, & vice versa. Also, the event gives an opportunity for local arts & crafts to exhibit & display their products, giving the whole local community an event to connect & come together. Check it out at YouTube

Participation in Rural Tourism & Organic farming promotional events

Mr. Sukhchain Singh Gill, the octogenarian founder of Hansali Organic Farm is also a motivational speaker and he has been a speaker at Josh Talks about his journey in Organic farming. In addition to making the organic farm & farm stay a success, he also wants to make the farm a model for the youth in Punjab, who can take inspiration from him & add value to their farming activity for supplementing their agricultural incomes by adding value like organic & Rural Tourism.

We really enjoyed our stay in Hansali Organic farms. The hosts are super friendly and took good care of us and showed us around the property with great enthusiasm. Their passion for creating a very natural ecosystem using chemical free farming practices is commendable. The difference becomes very clear when you taste the food which is completely divine. The rooms and facilities are tastefully decorated and excellently maintained. Very resort like luxurious experience. The hospitality was one of the best I have experienced and our entire family felt completely at home.

In summary a unique and very enriching experience. We will definitely come again and would recommend everyone to try it out.

Authentic, Genuine Punjabi Village Farm stay! Absolutely awesome experience. As we all know, there are many fake farmstay experiences that are advertised all over Punjab. Hansali organic Farm is truly a holistic & authentic experience of a typical Punjabi working farm. The farm is managed by the Gill family, who have genuine love for the land, the animals, the plants and also wants to make sure that every guest has a great experience of the Punjabi Village lifestyle. Additionally, the food is truly to die for! They will cater to your needs as per your requirement. VERY tasty and real Punjabi cuisine. Mohan, the chef is very flexible and kind hearted. The accommodation is very well done. Very clean and well managed with a lovely patio and terrace to go with. The cherry on the cake is having a dialogue with the amazingly wise owner of the farm - Mr. Gill. 83 year old 4th generation PROUD farmer. Gill saheb has such incredible experiences and he will just inspire you in a different level. Do not miss having a dialogue over tea. Overall, a 5 star experience! A MUST try for any discerning traveller yearning for a true Punjabi farmhouse stay!

So peaceful and secluded! The owner hospitality is to die for he is such a sweet kind person. You will get to meet his father who is an inspiration to the younger youth. The rooms are so cozy, it was so great to sit in the garden and just watch the beautiful farm animals and enjoy snacks and lunch. Kiran was so helpful with the booking process and made sure we had everything we needed to feel completely comfortable. I had guests from Germany visiting and they loved the experience too :) I would highly recommend if you are looking for a getaway that is secluded. We will definitely be back!

Kiran and Pavall were just awesome hosts! Pavall drove up from Chandigarh to receive us and stayed late showing us the place, telling us the story, sharing all the little and big details and clearly demonstrating their passion for organic farming. We then had some of the best food we've had in our entire road trip in India - organic, authentic, freshly cooked Punjabi food in the winter sun with the other family staying there. Then we watched the animals being milked and got to try a glass of fresh A2 cow milk! We picked up baby goats, watched the feedings and had two more delicious meals. The sunset was stunning and the bonfire to ring in the new year was the perfect memory. The 84 year old creator of the farm is a superb conversationalist and great soul. "Fun, welcoming, animally" was the description from my 10 year old. We would come back here and stay in a year (just).

Really good experience. Beautiful locale, great hospitality and hosts. Mouthwatering food and the connect with nature. My toddler even enjoyed a tractor ride. We stayed for one night only and wished we could have extended it if not for the scheduled onward journey. Definitely recommend if you are a nature lover.

Hansali Organic Farm & Stay, Fatehgarh Sahib

If you are really into organic farming and would like to enhance your knowledge about it, a stay at Hansali Organic Farm comes highly recommended. They offer simple but comfortable double occupancy suites. You will love the fresh, homemade organic meals made from homegrown produce.

During your stay at Hansali Farm, you may also encounter excited school and college students enjoying their educational outing and trying to learn new methods of integrated organic farming.

Guess what? They have even had the pleasure to host the likes of Prince Charles. Yes, you read that right. The aim of the organic farm is to propagate the use of technology to achieve a good yield without causing any harm to the natural environment or the people who inhabit it.

A stay here could turn out to be a great learning experience and one that will stay with you for a long time.

Charles shows princely concern for green patch

ROYAL CALL Visits farm at Fatehgarh Sahib, willing to fly in neem saplings from England

• Luke Martin, the royal artist accompanying the Prince during his Hansali farm visit, puts together a sketch of village life.

#gurpreet@hansaliorganic.com

HANSALI (FATEHGARH SAHIB): Returning to the farms of Punjab after a gap of four years, the Prince of Wales this time went away with a promise—to supply saplings for conserving environment “in case people here are willing”.

Wearing a steel grey suit, Prince Charles arrived at Sukhchain Singh Gill’s farm here at 4 pm and stayed there for an hour before leaving for Patiala, Mehar, the youngest member of the Gill clan, welcomed the Prince by presenting a bouquet to him.

The Duchess of Cornwall, Camilla Parker, was not to the Prince’s side when he walked through Gill’s banana farm, seeing seedless cucumbers grown under controlled farm conditions.

Unlike his previous visit to Patiala in 2006 when the Prince had inaugurated the Bhoonid Yardhan Foundation, an initiative in organic farming, this time he seemed well briefed about issues concerning Punjab.

The Prince asked the staff accompanying him to drop with the Punjab government for supplying neem saplings.

The Prince was visibly excited about a hangan tree grown in the courtyard of the house built on the farm.

The Prince also arrived on Monday after inauguration of Commonwealth Games in New Delhi was apparently not impressed with media queries. Farmers’ Commission chairman Dr G.S. Kalkat said the Prince had been briefed about the issues concerning agriculture—depleting water table, excessive use of pesticides and burning of paddy stubble.

The district administration and police officials who were on their toes before the Prince’s arrival later relaxed when the Prince was in the farmhouse courtyard.

In an exhibition put up by the farmers’ commission, the Prince was shown farm implements like happy seeder and laser land leveller besides banana and turmeric grown on the farms. After tea, the Prince willingly posed for photos with those present before leaving in a Merc-

FATEHGARH SAHIB: The Prince attached to soil is flying down to meet a planter who shares his passion for new agriculture.

The royal visit will be “a common one”, Sukhchain Singh Gill, a progressive farmer at the Hansali village in the district, has planned no special welcome for the Prince of Wales and the Duchess of Cornwall. “If the imperial couple accepts flowers from my grandchildren on their proposed visit to my farm on Monday, I’ll be glad, the Prince as we care for any other visitor. There will be no special welcome.”

Fatehgarh Sahib, a religious and historical town, is ready to welcome Prince Charles of Britain and his wife, Camilla, on their official visit to India between October 2 and 5 to open Commonwealth Games in New Delhi.

The Prince of Wales has made six official visits to India. The Duchess will make her second. Her Royal Highness accompanied the Prince to India in 2006.

Fatehgarh Sahib was the first place in Punjab to welcome Charles and Camilla in March 2006. The royal couple had visited the farm of Kapoor Singh at the Shamsder Nager village near Sirhind, and interacted with his family.

At that time, Charles was curious about the farmer’s technique of rearing buffaloes and running a vermin-compost unit on the farm. He also visited the Bhatnagra village in the district and interacted with it people before inaugurating Punjab Agri Food Park at Sirhind.

The royal visit to the farm at Hansali is much anticipated in the region. When contacted at his farm on Thursday, 73-year-old Sukhchain Singh Gill said: “We will treat the Prince as we care for any other visitor. There will be no special welcome.”

The Punjab Farmers’ Commission chairman and the Director, Agriculture, visited his farm on Tuesday and dropped no special instructions. When asked if he had any “token of love” for the Prince, he said: “If permitted, I’d like the British royal couple to receive flowers from my grandson, Fateh Gill, and grand-daughter, Mehar Gill.”

Gill, who lives in Chandigarh, visits his farmhouse daily. He purchased 12 acres at Hansali in 2007 and started net-house cultivation on an acre. He said: “Charles will study the net-house cultivation of tomato, capsicum, and banana etc. The technique brings in better productivity and quality.”

After matriculation, Gill entered the College of Arts in Shimla and completed a five-year degree course in commercial art. He said: “There is no age bar for learning.”

A senior official in the Government of Punjab said Prince Charles had been interested in organic farming and he was instrumental in creating Duchy Originals in the UK in 1992 for providing growers with “natural, high-quality food”. The official added: “His proposed visit to Gill’s farm will encourage cultivators engaged in sustainable farming and the use of organic stimulants.”

The royal couple is also expected to see and exhibition at the Gill farmhouse on facets of the Punjab agriculture, highlighting diversification and focus on natural and organic produce.
